On the other hand the dethroned leader's friends claim that the marriage of Mr. Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea has made a deep impression in Ireland, and one generally favorable. They say the anti-Parnellites were noticeably disappointed when the news came to London, as some of them had been declaring all along that Parnell never would marry Mrs. O'Shea. The anti-Parnellites now declare that Parnell has abandoned the home rule principle, and is making the struggle in Austrian frontier, and the probability that the Russian forces in that direction will be increased instead of diminished. Austria proposes practically to put Galicia in a state of military occupation, with a force sufficient to confront an unexpected attack. Permanent barracks are to be erected in Cracow, Rzeszow, Tarnopol and Przemysł and other places to take the place of temporary barracks put up during the war scare of about three years ago. The temporary barracks were of timber. The new barracks will be of stone, and will cost many millions of fiorins. tone, and will cost many millions of floring stone, and will cost many millions of florins.

New fortifications are also to be constructed for the defense of places now open to sudden attacks of artillery in Galicia. Repeating rifles are to be served out to the garrison and smokeless powder provided for the heavy ordnance. Altogether when these costly preparations are completed, Russia will find herself face to face with a well organized force, in strength and equippage equal to herself. THREE MEN MURDER A MERCHANT AT THE LIT-TILE VILLAGE OF AGENCY.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., June 27.—At the village of Agency on the Santa Fe road, fourteen miles from here, Theodore Smith was murdered at his store just as he was closing up for the night. W. Smith was in the store about 10. night. Mr. Smith was in the store about 10 o'clock in the evening with his 7-year-old boy when three men appeared at the door with drawn revolvers. One of the men called to Mr. Smith to hold up his hands. He said, "For God's sake, don't shoot!" but had scarcely spoken when one of the trio fired. The boy ran out past the men and fled up the street. Several shots were fired at the boy, but missed. When he reached home he fainted on the doorsteep.

Brass Band was rehearsing up-stairs over the store and all the men rushed down on hearing the shots. They arrived just in time to see the men disappear toward the south. The body of Mr. Smith was taken to his home.

Revelations in the Investigation of Treasurer Bardsley.

ANOTHER QUEER PINANCIAL TRANSAC. TION BROUGHT TO LIGHT.

Appears on a Keystone Stock Certifi cate-A Nebraska Bank's Doors Clos To-Day-Cashier Horner's Shortage Failures and Defalcations.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27 .- Still another nestegg of ex-City Treasurer Bardsley has been found. It is $30,000. The first, it will be remembered, consisted of $100,000 in stock in the hands of the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank. In the course of the investigation of the affairs of Bardsley in connection with Glendenning & Co., the law department learned that the bankers, who were depositors in the Fourth Street National Bank, had on May 22 received a clearing-house due bill from that institution for $80,257.58. This bill was not paid the next day, as was customary, and when City Solicitor Warwick learned this he asked the bank to notify him learned this he asked the bank to notify him when it was presented for payment. About ten days ago it was presented by the runner of the City Trust Co. of 927 Chestnut street, who asked that the due bill be made payable to their order, instead of Glendenning & Co. This was refused, and City Solicitor Warwick, when notified, consulted the officials of the trust company, and the result of his investigation brought out these facts: Glendenning & Co. were depositors in the Fourth Street National Bank.

On the 22d of May of this year they deposited a check in the Fourth Street National Bank of $30,287.58. The check was drawn to the order of themselves and was honored by the Fourth Street National Bank in the giving of a clearing-house due bill for the said amount.

About the second week of the present month the runner or messenger of the City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co. presented the due bill to the cashier of the Fourth Street National Bank and requested that a due bill for the same amount be drawn in favor of City Trust, Safe Deposit & Surety Co. From the officials of that company it was learned that a relative of Mr. Bardsley's called at the Trust company's building and told one of the officers of the company that the due bill was the property of Mr. Bardsley; that it was his own money and not public money, and she desired to have it transferred in this way to the Trust Co.

Upon this representation the Trust company gave the due bill to their runner, who presented it to the Fourth Street National Bank in the course of that day and made the request above referred to. The Fourth Street is a coarse, vulgar, impertinent fellow. Heber Newton is not dishonest of feeling:

THE ATTACK ON DR. BROOKS.

to Dr. De Costa. Boston, Mass., June 27.—Miss Alzyre A. hevallier, whose bitter attack on the Rev. Phillips Brooks in a letter to the Rev. De Cost led to so much opposition to the Boston rector's election to the bishopric, has writ incident:

On May 5 in a conversation with Dr. Brooks I very fully described to him what I considered a most significant mass meeting held the Sunday previous at Chickering Hall, New York. Said meeting was called by the Benedictine revivalist and evangelist monk, known as Dr. Ignatius, to profest against insincerity within the church and in the pulpit, being specially directed against the Rev. Heber Newton's inconsistent position. The meeting was not to protest against freedom of opinion, not to curtail its legitimate expression outside a church which demands concecrated vows of loyalty to distinct dogmatic teness. Friar Ignatius unhesitatingly admitted this right, stating that the very platform on which he stood would that evening be occupied by a man who would extract truths that he (the monk of the control of the provided states truths that he (the monk of the control of the provided states truths that he (the monk of the control of the provided states truths that he (the monk of the control of the provided states truths that he the monk of the control of the provided states that the two types of the provided states of his not remaining in an evangelical chareb to undermine distinct articles of faith he had sworn to present and defend. Not such, however, he argued, was Heber Newton's position.

Father Ignatius then read extracts from the Bible relating to the miraculous conception and bodily incarnation of Jesus, the letter of which the church accepts, stating that the two fundamental doctrines of both the Catholie and Protestant Churches were these, their definite and literal interpretation of the Immaculate Conception and resurrection of the identical body, and, therefore, no one has a right to remain in a church declaring such a definite statement of faith who did not accept and teach it, and surely not one who deilberately denied it and widely preached such denial.

All this we narrated fully to Dr. Brooks for her attack were based upon the following ing: "Heber Newton is not dishonest. He has a right to his own interpretation."

The subject was then discussed but it made a deep impression on me. In scores of conversations with this great, broad mind, it was the first time I ever heard him speak against a human being, and it was painful to reflect that such abusive language should be provoked by so consistent and justifiable a position as that taken by Father Ignatius in this instance and that such justification of Mr. Newton's untenable position should be made by one so exceptionally straightforward and single handed, as all who know Mr. Brooks will feel him to be. While the innocent, immediate cause of an ecclesiastical eruption, I wish to put myself on record emphatically as being heartily and fully in sympathy, theologically, with Dr. Brooks, rather than Dr. De Costa, while on the other hand heartily and fully in sympathy with Dr.

10WA CROPS.

Dzs Moines, lo., June 27.—This week's bulletin of lowa's weather and crop service reports high temperature and abundant sunshine in a larger portion of the State, advancing corn to nearly the a verage condition and benefiting all crops. The destructive effects of the heavy rain-storm of the 23d and 24th are limited to the area of nine or ten northwestern counties, in which the aggregate damage will exceed $1,000,000. In about two-thirds of the State there was no excess of rainfall. The wheat harvest is begun in Southern localities. Oats are rank, showing a tendency to rust and lodge.

$1,000 and each of the other competing architects will then get $500 for his plan, which becomes the property of the Depot Co.

A VIOLATED CODE.

The terms of the competition are in violation of the rules of the American Institute of Architects, which require the members to charge $40 per cent of the cost of the work.

When the Union Depot Board set out to get its plans it wrote to the architects, asking them to compete. These architects were: S. J. Boman of Chicago, Walters of Louisville, Van Brunt & Howe of Kaneas City, Shepley, Rutan & Coolidge of Boston; Brucs Pria of New York and T. C. Link, George R. Mann, the City Hall Architect, Grable & Weber, J. Stewart & Co. and Peabody, Stearns & Furber of St. Louis.

RESENTFUL ARCHITECTS.

The announcement of the terms created much discussion among the architects, and it was thought at first that all of them would refuse to enter the competition. The firms of Belman, Shepley and Peabody wrote letters declining to furnish plans, stating that the terms did not agree with the architects' schedules. The rest of the ten wen to work puting up plans, and the Depot company wrote to other architects to fill up the list. Eames & Young were written to and asked to enter, and they refused. Then the list was filled up by taking other architects.

UNPROPESSIONAL TERMS.

Architect P. P. Furber of Peabody, Stearns & Co. said to-day: "Our firm refused to enter the competition because it would be unprofessional, the rates being lower than the regular commissions. The result of the withdrawal of so many architects of such high standing as those who have gone out will be that the company will not be able to get its plans made by the architects who were its first choice, but will have to be content with the work of the men who were the second choice. I don't care to criticise the architects who have entered the competition. I suppose they know what they are doing."

GROWING CROPS.

Progress of Harvesting in Western States
—Weather News.

DWIGHT, Ill., June Z.—Prince's crop report of this week states that the latest information from Kansas is less favorable, there being much damage to wheat by water, bugs and rust, and harvesting is much delayed by rains in Northern kansas; one-third of the crop will be plump and of good quality; the balance shrunken and uneven. Some counties im Missouri report an excess of straw. On the lowlands in Northern Office weeks the service of the Institute approved the Mercantile Club competition, The St. Louis chapter of the institute, and Architect Link, who staid in the competition, is the Vice-President. Mr. Link said: "This is an opportunity that comes very rarely to an architect, and he cannot afford to throw it away because the terms do not suit him. The competition itself is fairer and much more proportional than several that have competition, for instance. That was like tooking pennies to newshoys to scramble continued by a distinguished homor to have one's plans accepted. The terms would be a matter for of the Institute approved the Mercantile Club competition, and this one is so much

Dr. TAUSSIO'S OFINION.

Dr. William Taussig, General Manager of the Union Depot Co., said: "The terms of this competition I know are not in agreement with the rules of the architects, but what is that to us. We make our offer and they can take it or not. In their ordinary competitions, the successful man gets 3½ per cent, and the others nothing. Our competition gives them all something.

much ill-feeling among the architects, which is not in all cases suppressed, and it may end by bringing trouble into the St. Louis Chapter of the American Institute.

The prims are to be awarded July 1. According to the terms of the competition as set out by the directors' board of the Union Depot Co., the architect whose plans are accepted will get 2½ per cent of the estimated cost of the depot, which will be $400,000. That will be $10,000. He will get no more than that if the building costs more. The second best plan will be given $1,500, the third best plan $1,000 and each of the other competing architects will then get $500 for his plan, which becomes the property of the Depot Co.

Of Club competition, and this one is so much more just that the society might well do the same with this." Our competition gives them all something. The withdrawal from the competition of those who do not regard this as the chance of a lifetime will not hurt us. We will have about ten designs made by excellent architects to choose from."

Violation of the Pharmacy Law-The Manager of the Richelieu Hotel Arrested for Disturbing the Peace-General Police News.

This morning about 10 o'clock the hoodlum wagon from the Third District Station drove up to the City Hall with four little girls aged from 11 to 15 years who had been arrested at 10'clock last night in a woodshed in the rear of No. 230 Biddle street. The girls were rear of No. 250 Biddle street. The girls were brought into the Mayor's office by Sergt. Shore with a report to Maj. Harrigan which stated in effect that the children were utterly incorrigible and had been rep eatedly arrested for being out on the street at night and for stealing. They were, the report stated, confirmed thieves and morally deprayed. The children were brought before the Mayor. Their names were May Benton, aged 13; Addie Kruse, aged 15; Mamie Haney, aged 11, and Julia Horrocks, aged 15. Sergt. Shore said that he had arrested the Kruse girl and the Horrocks girl from time to time for the past two years and that they had been known as incorrigible for a long time. The other two had but lately joined the little band of girl hoodlums and were not so bad. The Kruse girl and the Horrocks girl were sent to the House of Good Shepherd and the other two to the House of Refuge. Sergt. Shore said to a reporter: "You have no idea what terribly deprayed little creatures those children are. Only a short time ago I arrested these four and three others at 2 o'clock in the morning for being on a vacant lot with a lot of peddlers.

There was a good deal of talk about the City Hall to-day over the instructions of Maj. Murphy, the Street Commissioner, to Mr Duffy, the Superintendent, about the exclusion of unnaturalized citizens from the de tration laws. One of the city officials in speaking of the matter to-day said: "Maj. Mnrphy's orders can only apply to but a few of the men in his department. These memorandums of charter provisions will indicate just how far the law about elected or appointed officers will apply." The gentleman then furnished the following memorandums:
Charter—Art. 4, Sec. 10—Qualifications of officer—Must be citizens of the United Sistes and of St. Louis for two years and read and write the English language.
Charter—Art. 9, Sec. 43—Defines "officers"—All persons holding any situation under city government or its departments with an annual salary, or for a definite term of office.

Revised ordinance—Chap. 32, Sec. 1356—Fixes maximum pay draftsmen a$ $75.

The last provision shows why the foreign element gets into the draughtsmen's department. The pay is so very small that only foreigners not well acquainted with the language can afford to work for such small pay, and they only accept the positions for such time as they may qualify for work on railroads or the architects' offices where the pay is seldom less than $150 a month. Right on the heels of the order to make every man in the department a qualified voter, comes the announcement that Supt. George Cunningham of the Central District had been discharged. This was foretold in the Post-Disparch some days ago and was not unexpected. The department employes are now wondering who will be the next victim as they now believe that all those not in touch with the administration must go.

The Duncan Avenue Bridge.

THE 'FRISCO MORTGAGE FILED IN ST. Engineer Gaylor of the Bridge Division of paring for the laying of the cornerstone of he Duncan Avenue Bridge on King's highway, which is about to be constructed to reway, which is about to be constructed to re-place the old viaduct now spanning that thoroughfare. The new structure is to be located at the corner of King's highway and Duncan avenue, and will be an ornament to that portion of Forest Park. The cost will be $17,500, a portion of which was contributed by the Wabash Ballway.

Tour of North St. Louis.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Mayor, the Board of Public Improvements and Messrs. Louis Fusz, Fred Schwartz, Charles James, Dr. Richardson, John C. Now and then some comical things happen in the receiving room out at the County Hospital. Hr. Hector was on duty one night and had fallen asleep on the little cot provided for physicians on duty, when he was aroused by the rattle of the patrol wagon at the front entrance. He listened to the shuffling foot-steps and knew it was a case of drunk with more or less elaborate trimmings. Finally two policemen struggled into the room assisting one of the most wretched and dilapidated specimens of humanity that ever lay on a stretcher. The fellow had become intoxicated, had fallen into a quarrel, and had suffered a terrible beating. His face was badly cut in a dozen places. His lips were swollen and bleeding, his eyes were blackened and half shut, his cheeks were lacerated and his teeth were loose, and over all was the raggedest, muddlest, most disheveled suit of clothes possible to imagine.

They laid him on the operating table, and one of the attendants assisted the doctor to remove the garments and baths him, while the policemen bade good night and went back to their beats. Spite of his liquor and his terrible drubbing the fellow was game, and a sort of grim humor welled up every moment of the operation that was necessary to fit him for recovery. He joked about the stitches in his cheek, and told the doctor the needle must have been case-hardened. He protested against the plaster, and claimed he had always heard a porous plaster recommended. He finally pulled out a lossened tooth and offered it to the attendant for a paper weight.

At last the patching was completed, and he stood up in an unsteady fashion, his single garment being the sheet with which he had been e Roman toga, struck the most heroic of attitudes, and delivered himself to the sewed and cemented figure in the glass:

O, parden me, thou bleeding piece of earth. That I am meek and game with these butches! in the receiving room out at the County Hos-

The beauty and variety of the silks which enter into it are noteworthy features of the trousseau, the peculiarly rich and soft luster of some of them being almost beyond comparison. There are several as yet uncut lengths of brocades and brocatelles, whose colors shade together in what en thusiasts call "poetic" harmony. They are for the most part after the exquisite old French designs of Louis XIV., XV. and XVI. An especially noticeable evening frock is of a delicate shot silk in primrose and white, and another is a heavy silver brocade made in the Empire style, with ropes of roses arranged in fringes from the waist and about the hem.

A dove colored carriage dress is made with a long coat and waistcoat of gold and white brocade trimmed with gold galoon. With it goes a hat of gold straw with garnitures of pink roses, chiffon and gold ribbon.

A reception dress of white bengaline has a pink velvet waistcoat in Louis XV. style, and is to be worn with a white, three-cornered hat ornamented with pink roses.

A gown of black chiffon is as beautiful as any. It opens over a petticoat brocaded in small blue flowers. A fillet of blue velvet is arranged to wear in the hair.

But life is not all dancing and driving and dining; there is, accordingly, a silver gray

Little Leghorn hats filled with them and hung on the arm with a ribbon are used as favors in the german, and a basket of orchids for a dinner costs $100. Indeed, the cost of the cut flowers used in New York in one winter for entertaining is said to be $5,000,000. Orchids have this advantage over other flowers—they have no scent; and that in a mixed company and a hot room is an advantage, as some people cannot bear even the perfume of a rose.

Bags of plush gaily embroidered, heavily trimmed with lace, screens and all sorts of little charms for the watch chain, smelling bottles and bangles, are given in the German. The owl is a favorite emblem. His power of looking wise and being foolish fits him for fashionable society. He now carries the day, having always owned the night; every kind of reticule and chatelaine, embroidered, painted and shaded, are given, and mandolins and tamborines are very favorite favors.

Imitation rackets, battledoor and shuttle-cock, banjos, fans in every shape and form, watches in bracelets and to hang at the girdle in crystal, all are utilized.

tax is to be imposed, we find that we are importing about 50,000 tons more than we did last year, and it is loudly asserted that the galvanized iron and granite iron ware companies are not preparing to keep their contract and do not intend to do so, because they think they can have the benefit of the 70 per cent tax on tin-plate and tin-ware for six years without manufacturing any tin-plate at all.

Now they can easily import the skilled labor needed to make the required steelplate and to tin it. With tariff protection mounting to 70 per cent they can not only produce and sell tin-plate with profit at the enhanced price but by making a combination with the British tin men and agreeing to produce only one-fourth of the tin-plate consumed in the United States they can put the price even above the high tariff mark and greatly enlarge their very profitable galvanized iron and granite ware market. The fact that importers are glutting the narket with British tin in anticipation of the new tariff tax, may account for the delay on the part of those who have engaged to produce one-fourth of the tin-plate connext six years. We see no reason to doubt that it is a profitable contract for them, or that Congress will abolish the tinplate tax if they fail to produce the stipulated quota of American tin-plate during glaring fraud of the tax that neither House of Congress and no political party would

Coming Turnfest

From the Indianapolis Sentinel,
Twenty-two hundred dollars of the Turnfest should produce one-fourth of the tin-plate consumed in each of those six years, and the penalty prescribed in the bill for their failure to do so is to be the free admission of tin-plates at the end of the six years.

On the basis of last year's consumption this contract calls for the production of 8,500 tons of American tin-plate annually, and just after the tariff act passed last July it was announced that six mills would begin turning out tin-plate immediately. MARITAL MISERY.

Judge Withrow Passes Upon a Number of Divorce Cases.

COUPLES WHO FOUND THAT LOVE DID NOT LAST.

Young Husband Spends His Honeymoon in Carousing-Would Not Let Her Sleep-Made to Hoe Corn-An Injunction Against Money-Lender Vette-News From the Courts.

Judge Withrow, sitting in Circuit Court room No. 5, Judge Valliant's division, tool up to-day the remainder of the twenty-one divorce cases which had been set for hearing on Thursday, but which were not all dis-posed of. The first case heard was that Mrs. Mary J. Belleville against her husband, John Believille. Mrs. Believille, a young brunette, stated her husband was 58 years old and that he had children older than herself. Mrs. Belleville began t tell about her trouble with her step-children. The noise from passing wagons on the street was such that it was hard to understand the witness, who spoke in a low tone. A question by Judge Withrow showed that the court was laboring under difficulty in hearing the case. Her husband, the plaintiff said, used to be particularly disagreeable on Saturday nights. She supposed it was because he could rest on Sanday. He would come home intoxicated and scold, she stated, and jump up and down in bed and would not let her sleep.

Mrs. Belleville stated she was a member of the Rock Church and kept boarders at 1822A Olive. ell about her trouble with her step-children

Mrs. Jones testified to Mrs. Belleville's good character. She said that Mrs. Believille was very active in church matters, attending church regularly, collecting money, etc. Ella Davis, a colored giri, who was employed at the Bellevilles, testified to the treatment Mrs. Belleville had received at the hands of her husband and his children. The divorce was granted.

BRIEF HAPPINESS The next case on the docket was that of Mrs. Emma Hoffman against George Hoff-man. Mrs. Hoffman, a voluptuous blond, apparently about 25 years old, stated her husband, in about three months after their marriage began to drink and came home under the influence five or six times a week, and treated her badly.

Mrs. Matilda Crews, mother of the plainting treated her badly.

stated she lived at 2231 Mullanphy and that her daughter lived with her. She coroborated her daughter's testimony stat-ing that her daughter had to come home for something to eat while she lived with her usband. The divorce was granted.

PUT HER OUT OF THE HOUSE.

Mrs. Mary E. Brestow stated that her husband, William G. Brestow, took her by the arm and put her out of the house. This occurred at her husband's parents, she stated. She walked seven miles to the town, she stated. They lived near Houston, Mo. She charged cruel treatment and blamed her hus-and's parents.

Mrs. Charles Schang, a sister of plaintiff, stated she was at her sister's house on one occasion and her sister was hoeing corn in the field, and when she came to the house her husband cursed her and asked her why she came to the house until all the corn was she came to the house until all the corn was hoed. The case was taken under advise-ment to give the court an opportunity to more closely examine the Sheriff's return. Judge John A. Talty was attorney in the last two cases. Joseph Crawford and his wife Kate Crawford applied for an injunction to-day in the Circuit Court against John H. Vette, the money lender. Plaintiffs allege that on Nov. 10, 1890, they delivered to defendant their promissory note for the sum $22 secured by chattel mortagage on their household furniture in their house at 119 South Fourteenth street. The Crawfords further stated that although the note was for $22 they received but $15. They have paid on the note they stated $14.50, and that on or about June 23, 1891, they tendered to defendant the balance due him together with interest at the rate mentioned on the note, but that he refused to accept the amount tendered, and refused to cancel the mortgage unless they paid him the full amount of the note, $22 with interest and noney lender. Plaintiffs allege that on Nov. unless they paid him the full amount of the note, $22 with interest and the further sum of $5 for commission. Defendant threatens, the petition alleges, to foreclose the mortgage and take from the plaintiffs their furniture, which is all the property, plaintiffs allege, they have. The plaintiffs also offered to pay into court the amount still due. The application was made before Judge Withrow, who ordered the injunction to be issued, provided plaintiffs give a bond of $100 and pay into court the amount legally due on the note. George B.

OMAHA'S BOARD OF TRADE. A Delegation Visits the City to Study

This morning a special car containing a delegation from the Omaha Board of Trade arrived in the Union Depot from Chicago. The delegation is composed of Euclid Martin President of the Omaha Board of Trade; D. H. Wheeler, Vice-President; W. N. Nason, Secretary; L. D. Fowler and Frank White. gan of the Merchants' Exchange, and after being escorted to the Southern, where accommodations had been secured, were taken to the Merchants' Exchange In reference to the object of their visit Secretary Nason said: "We have just obtained State inspection of grain in Nebraska and the establishment of a system of grades. This has encouraged us to make an attempt to handle the Nebraska wheat in Omaha, and we are confident that we can succeed. We wish to do nothing hastily, and therefore this delegation was sent out to in-vestigate the methods of inspection prevail-ing in the principal wheat markets of the West. We first went to St. Paul and Minne-West. We first went to St. Paul and Minneapolis, then to Duluth and next to Chicago. From this city we shall go to Kansas City, and from there home. When we set out we saw no reason why we should send all our grain to Chicago to be shipped from that point, and since we have visited the principal grain markets are convinced of the accuracy of our belief. Few people, even those engaged in the grain trade, appreciate the importance of Nebraska as a wheat State. Kansas is called the wheat State, and Nebraska the corn State, but as a matter of fact during the last five years Nebraska has produced more wheat than Kansas. Heretofore we have had no regular system of grades, more wheat than kansas. Heretolore we have had no regular system of grades, and this has prevented us from handling our own crop. Now, however, we have state inspection and regular grades, and we would be foolish to allow our wheat solely for the benefit of Chicago. We do not intend to do this any longer, but will handle our crop at Omaha. We have ample railroad facilities, and we need only a larger elevator system. There is a splendid chance for elevators in Omaha, and already capitalists are preparing to take advantage of it. Most of our grain is spring wheat, but there is a considerable quantity of winter wheat raised. I am convinced that Omaha is certain to beam convinced that Omana is certain to be-come a most important grain market."

The delegates were received on 'Change by President Bernheimer, and made a thorough investigation of the inspection system on both sides of the river. The party will leave for Kansas City on Sunday night.

Louis is a mighty good town in many ways. Its society, for example, is as delightful as that of any place with which I am acquainted. The old Southern families who constitute the aristocracy there are highly educated, cultivated and refined, and as hospitable as Californians. The entertainments that they give are not, it is true, so elaborate and so fin de slecle as the functions of Chicago and New York, but they are none the less enjoyable and beautiful on that account. The people live a quiet life, full of sensible pleasures, and are quite satisfied to be a few months behind in the fashions. But for all that, I found in $t. DEFIES THE LAW.

Saloonkeeper Beckman Still Keeps His Place Open.

TWELVE HUNDRED DOLLARS IN FINES NOW STAND AGAINST HIM.

Noonan-An Unusual Defiance of All Authority Which Leads to the Suspicion That the Man Has Promise of Pro-

Martin Beckman, the saloon-keeper on the corner of Park and California avenues, still continues to do business in defiance of the law, the City Collector, the police and the Police Court. Though arrested four times and fined $300 each time, and owing the city $1,200 in penalties, he keeps his doors open day and night selling drinks, and the residents of the neighborhood have found themselves powerless to stop him. Beckman themselves powerless to stop him. Beckman opened his saloon about two months ago. After putting in his fixtures and a stock of liquor he went about the neighborhood with a petition soliciting the names of the property owners on the block. The law states clearly that a saloon shall not be opened in a block unless the person wishing to open the saloon secures the written convent of two-thirds of the property owners in the block. saloon secures the written convent of twothirds of the property owners in the block.
It also says the collector shall not issue a license to any one without the consent of the majority of the property owners and it is his duty to arrest and punish anyone who shall open a saloon in violation of this law and prosecute him. There are nineteen property owners in the block, on which Beckman's saloon is situated and he secured the consent of only five of them to open he secured the only five of them of only five of them to open the saloon. He evidently did not regard this as any bar to obtaining a license, as he was ready for business before he had finished canvassing the neighborhood. He asked the Collector for a license, but as he could not make affidavit that two-thirds of the property owners had given that

Mr. Griesedieck secured a stay of execution and saw Mayor Noonan. A request was made to have the fine remitted, but the howls of indignation on the part of the injured citizens was so loud the Mayor would only consent to stay the execution thirty days, to give Beckman time to get the consent of the property man time to get the consent of the property

KEPT ON SELLING.

This he could not do, but he continued to sell drinks all the while. Again the citizens complained, and Beckman was arrested his saioon to sell drinks. Every glass of beer or liquor sold over the bar while Beckman is without a license and the consent of the property owners is a direct violation of the law. The citizens claim that when a dispolice do not arrest the disturbers only to re-lease them again to raise a further disturb-ance, but that they put an end to the matter at once and make arrests as often as the place is disturbed. They have repeatedly asked to have this rule applied in Beckman's case, as he does not seem to care for arrests, fines, protests, or com-plaints and sells liquor in the midst of a col-ony of pretty homes and a quiet neighbor-

Beckman can keep his case in court and his fines stayed or remitted by the Mayor he can continue in the saloon business regard-less of the license law, the consent of the people and in the face of all laws.

BRIGHT MIND DISEASED.

Insane Asylum.

New Haven, Conn., June 77.—The theories of Lieut. G. A. L. Totten, who is endeavoring to convince people that the milienium will come within the present decade, have already taken root with a disastrous result. Yesterday the Rev. Frank L. Stevens, a brilliant young minister, who has been taking a post graduate course of the Yale Divinity School, was committed to the Hartford insane Retreat, a hopelesy maniac. Mr. Stevens was the most brilliant man in his class in the theological school and won a scholarship which entitled him to a long course of study in Europe. Before going he determined to take a year more here and fell in with Lieut. Totten, with whom he soon became very intimate. It was not long before the young minister was the most enthusiastic admirer of the United States Army officer, and he shortly became the most sincere disciple of the dashing Totten's millenium theories. The proximity of the world's end was too much for his brain, and he was slowly but surely losing his once splendid mind. Mr. Stevens' insanity has taken the form that he is the Redeemer whom Lieut. Totten predicts will again be on the earth this decade. He has been stationed in a fine pulpit at Southington, Conn., but last week was called to Brooklyn to supply a pulpit there. While on the way his wife discovered the first symtoms of the terrible calamity, and at once took measures to discover what she feared, but dreaded to know. It took but little in.

SHORT STORIES AND SKETCHES. Good Things Heard and Seen by Reporters

on Their Bounds. Col. Lew Clarke, the turfman, was a pleasant sight to bot and aching eyes as he sauntered down Olive street to-day. He wore a light straw hat, low-quarter shoes, a complete seersucker suit, a shirt whose purity had not been attacked by one flake of soot and collars and cuffs of equal whiteness. Shielding him from the hot rays of the sun was a white umbrella, lined inside with green. He seemed absorbed in his effort to be com-fortable and gave but a languid return to the fortable and gave but a languid return to the hearty greeting of Commissioner Lester Crawford, who was hurrying by, mopping little streams of perspiration from his face with a white slik handkerchief.

"How on earth do you do it?" the Commissioner gasped. "You look like an iceberg with a dozen polar bears on it?" "Don't say a word, Lester," said Col. Clarke, making a motion to get his pocket handkerchief, and then checking himself. "I'm hot as hades, but I'm going to look cool, if it kills me."

A DOG-ABOUT-TOWN. He was a little white dog of unassuming and patient bearing, but he was a retired 'rounder' of the streets and not easily 'fazed.' He sat on the sidewalk of Olive, "Tazed." He sat on the sidewalk of Olive, between Sixth and Seventh streets, in the noon rush; thinking what he should do next to kill time. He looked like an innocent dog and there were several files on him. An adjacent bootblack had some premature Fourth of July firecrackers in his pocket, and he sightest the little "jay" dog with a great and unholy joy swelling in his bosom. He edged his way around until he had only a backalley view of the little dog, and then he lit a fire-cracker and laid it gently down against the last chapter of the canine tall. The next moment the fire-cracker went to pieces with a crash like that of the Keystone Bank.

The bootblack laughed merrily, but pulled himself up after the first lap. He missed the conventional denouement of a dog demoralhimself up after the first lap. He missed the conventional denouement of a dog demoral-ized. The little white dog heard the exploised. The little white dog heard the explosion, but seemed to think it was not a local item. After a slight reverie he turned his head and saw the smoking "spunk" of the leprosy microbe. Then he saw the boy and the whole plot was revealed to him. But he actually smiled as he trotted around the next corner and thought of the bootblack's crushing disappointment.

AN OLD LADY'S FOOT-RACE. AN OLD LADY'S FOOT-RACE.

The Olive street cable cars were stopped yesterday for about a half hour, owing to some trouble with the cable. But there was a nice old lady out near Jefferson avenue, who didn't know it until she had indulged in quite a youthful and bellows-pumping footrace to keep from getting left. She wanted to go down town, and stepping out from her transfer of the street of t to go down town, and stepping out from herfront door saw a car standing about half a block away. In a moment she was in active chase, under full sail, waving her parasol and shouting as only a woman can shout after a street car.
The conductor and passengers saw her bearing down on them, and a broad smile added to the ventilation of the train. The good old lady was a sprinter and she broke the record getting to that car. As she came aboard panting she gasped out to the conductor: panting she gasped out to the conductor:
"Thanks! You were very kind to wait for me, sir!"

In the twenty minutes reverie that followed before the cable started up the old lady seemed to realize that she had been sold. But she maintained a frosty and unsmiling dignity over the discovery.

"The first fine was stayed forthirty days by the Mayor and we can do nothing until the time expires. A saloon-keeper has ten days to file a motion for appeal, and we will do nothing with the fines imposed yesterday until the ten days are up."

"In the meantime Beckman can continue to do that for which he has been fined, can he?"

"According to our view of the law he can."

"Does not the law provide that a saloon shall be closed after the keeper has been fined, pending the disposal of his case?"

"I do not know about that," said the chief clere. "I don't think it does."

From this it would appear that as long as Beckman can keep his case in court and his fines stayed or remitted by the Mayor he can continue in the saloon business regardless of the license law, the consent of the people and in the face of all laws.

In speaking of the condition of affairs in the silver mining regions, G. S. Kincaid of Pueblo, Colo., who is at the Laclede, said: "This year's output from Colorado and New Mexico promises to be unusually heavy, but there are fewer chances for a poor man than there used to be, There is no longer any rush after prospects, and prospectors have a rather hard time of it. Until very recently everyone wanted prospects, and a prospector had no difficulty in getting "grubstaked" and having his tools and a mule given to him in return for a little over a half interest in anything that he might find. Mines that were partly developed showed fair indications, but required a considerable amount of capital to properly work showed fair indications, but required a considerable amount of capital to properly work them, were rather a drug on the market, as all except the large mine owners who did not care to sell were in search of promising locations and ledges. This was not because our mining men had much faith in the undeveloped properties, but for the reason that the Eastern specialtors in mining lands and stocks were eager to obtain bonanzas, and did not care to invest large sums in a single property which, while it gave fair promise of paying handsome dividends, was reasonably certain not to be phenomenal. Our smaller mining men took advantage of this feeling, hunted up ledges which might be very rich, but in all probability were not, sunk a short shaft, organized a company and sold the stock in the Eastern market. This went on for several laced a company and sold the stock in the Eastern market. This went on for several years, but is about over now, as the investments so made have nearly universally resulted in loss. AN UNAPPRECIATED INVENTOR "In reading an article on whipping in the schools, published in the Sunday Post-Dis-Parch," said Charles Worburton, a school-teacher of Cincinnati who is visiting the city, "I wondered if the people of this city know that in its public schools a new and most efficient system of fiageliation originated, which has been a boon to teachers throughout the country. THE COTTON CROP IMPROVING.

This morning George Bartlett, a well-known cotton factor of Memphis, arrived in the city and is at the Lindell. "it seems now as if the cotton crop would be far heavier than was anticipated a few weeks ago. During the early part of May, and in fact up to the beginning of June, it looked as if we were going to have a vary short crop, and that prices would be higher. Not a little speculation has been indulged in on this basis, and the result will be vary heavy losses to many people. The copious rains have given the crop a new start, especially in Texas and Louisiana, and while the pick will not be heavy, it will in all probability be fair. The cotton growin all probability be fair. The cotton grow-ers would rather have seen a smaller crop, for prices have fallen rapidly since the change. The cause of this is twofold. In the first place many German and English the first place many German and English mills have shut down, or are running on half time because of the increased tariff imposed by the McKinley bill. In the second place the stocks of imported goods in the hands of wholesalers are very large, as great quantities were rushed over to avoid the payment of the increased duty. There is, therefore, little demand for cotton, prices are low and are likely to continue so for some time to come."

AN UNDERTAKER'S INSTRUCTIONS.

Every man takes a pride in his own business. This is true even of the undertaker, as the following story will serve to illustrate:

Several days ago the writer was called upon to perform the mourantil duty of pall-bearer. It so happened that all who had been selected to serve in that capacity on the sad occasion referred to were novices. None of them had ever acted as pall-bearers before, and the undertaker, who had charge of the funeral and was, of course, very desirous of having everything run smoothly, assembled them in a back room and delivered them the following lecture on how they were to act:

"Now take your places just as I arrange you; take the handles with your right hand, hold your hat in your left, like this—just about even with your shoulder, you see—and let the crepe fall gracefully over the arm. That's it. See that you keep the same places all the time, and when you are walking down the church aisle hold yourself as erect as possible. Now just remember what I have told you and you will attract the admiration of everybody because there is nothing looks nicer than a good looking set of pall-bearers." AN UNDERTAKER'S INSTRUCTIONS.

A SOIL-TILLER'S ADVICE.

"It is by no means certain that those who are bearing wheat with the idea that the crop will be very heavy," said orrin Mackwith, a farmer of Chariton County, "will not find themselves in a very tight box before the season is over. There is no doubt whatever that the wheat crop will be an exceptionally heavy one, but just what its condition will be when harvested it is impossible to tell yet. If everything goes well the bears will be all right. But a spell of bad weather may completely upest their calculations: Nearly all the wheat sold has been contract wheat, and while there is certain to be an immense crop harvested, it is not too late for much of it to deteriorate. A man being called upon to furnish No. 2 will not be helped by the fact that there is an unlimited amount of No. 3 on the market. While everything now looks well, the bears had best go a little slow, or some of them may get nipped." A SOIL-TILLER'S ADVICE.

A DRUMMER'S PLAINTIVE TALE.

TRAVELERS' TALES, but right here in Missouri, and the trade was a very profitable one. For some time it has been falling off, but the trade was a very profitable of the safe route" from Havre, a distance of 1,285 miles. One. For some time it has been failing off, but the great change has occurred within the last eighteen months. I find everywhere I go that men who used to deal with me are now buying their goods here, and St. Louis drummers have cut into the trade to such an extent as almost to ruin it. Where our house simployed four drummers, I am the only one left, and I don't know how long I will last. I learn from all quarters that this is the universal expression. The Eastern manufacturers and large wholesale dealers do not lose much, as their sales to this city direct have been largely increased, but it is pretty rough on the drummer, whose stock in trade is his acquaintance and knowledge of the needs of a certain district."

MODERN OCEAN STEAMERS.

"While in England a few weeks ago," said W. E. Upham of New York, who is at the Lindell, "I spent some time at the Liverpool shipyards and among the docks investigating the shipping, and although I have regularly crossed the ceean twice a year, I never had any adequate idea of how absolutely the element of danger had been eliminated from ocean travel. The captain of the City of Paris assured me that his vessel and those built on similar lines are to all intents andipurposes, absolutely unsinkable. Neither cliffs nor icebergs are greatly to be feared, and the fercest storm that ever blew need not give passengers the smallest anxiety. The entire bow of a steamer can be stove for fifty feet without the vessel sinking, and in a collision with an iceberg the only danger to be dreaded is the fall of a mass of ice on the steamers deck. So perfect is the MODERN OCEAN STEAMERS. danger to be dreaded is the fail of a mass of lee on the steamers deck. So perfect is the system of water-tight still bulkheads that no end collision can endanger a ship. If submerged rocks are struck the only effect would be a loss of speed, for with the double-hull system the entire sbottom can be ripped off, and the vessel remain as water-tight as ever. When the shaft bearings broke on the City of Paris and huge iron beams knocked around with terrific force, no damage whatever that endangered the safety of the ship was inflicted. With the vessels of ten years ago such an accident would have sent the best of them to the bottom. With the modern ship it is doubtful whether anything short of a shot from a mammoth naval gun or a stroke amidships from the ram of an ironclad could cause foundering."

THE MISSOURI WOOL CLIP.

"The wool clip of Missouri," said R. L. Hayes of Carthage, who is at the Hotel Moser, "will not only be unusually heavy this year, but the quality will be very much improved. Within the past three or four years there has been a great improvement in the breed of sheep found on our Missouri farms, and the result is now beginning to be very plainly apparent in much heavier fiescees. There was a strange blindness on the part of many to the capabilities of some of the most rugged portions of the Ozarks as pasturing ground, and even after it was found that sections supposed to be almost worthless were excellent for sheep, it was found that sections supposed to be almost worthless were excellent for sheep, it was found that sections for the capabilities of wool would not be raised because highgrade sheep were not hardy enough to stand the exposure incident to wintering without expensive shedding. Experience has shown that this fear was not well founded, and now the exposure incident to wintering without expensive shedding. Experience has shown that this fear was not well founded, and now many farmers are of the belief that shedding is a positive disadvantage, and that the finest sheep do better without it. High-grade merino sheep have been introduced, and within the last two years the average weight of the fleeces in the section of country with which I am familiar has increased at least two pounds and will increase to even greater extent."

etherized. On cutting through the tissue Dr. White found the ends of the bone in a conica shape and greatly wasted away. Moreover, the wire had pulled out of one end, but remained sticking through the other. The surgeons sawed off the ends of the bone obliquely and placed them close to each other. Then a hole was drilled through the other. Then a noise was drilled through the end pieces and they were fastened together by a single steel pin. The wound was dressed on the eleventh day after the operation and all expected successful results. Some five weeks later the wound had closed, but Dr. White found that the troublesome fracture

STEEL FLATING THE BONE.

Then did Miss Harper's relatives insist that she have the arm amputated. She still refused and on March 2 of this year lay again in a private operating room of the University Hospital. About the table stood Dr. White, Dr. Agnew, Dr. Edward Martin, Dr. W. E. Hunter and several surgical nurses. Carefully Dr. White cut through the arm until a wound was made some five inches long. Then while Drs. Martin and Hunter held the wound open, Dr. Agnew and Dr. White drilled two holes through each end of the fractured bone. That done they sawed the end obliquely and Dr. Martin and Dr.

Agnew and White placed over them a steel plate 2½ inches long, ½-inch wide and 1-16 of an inch thick through which four holes were drilled. A long strong steel screw was then inserted by Dr. Agnew and, using an ordinary screw-driver, Dr. White screwed it through the plate and into the bone. Another The patient recovered strength rapidly and at the end of three weeks the screws had loosened and were removed by Dr. White. Not long afterwards the wound was cut open and the plate was lifted. So confident of the success of this latter operation was Dr. White that a fortnight ago he sailed for Europe leaving his patient in the charge of his assistant. The latter said last night that Miss Harper has fully recovered the use of her arm and he pronounced the bone reunited. The right arm is a little shorter than the left, but when Miss Harper heard the surgeon's words she was so delighted that she forgot all about the difference in their length.

The commissioners, Messrs. James M. Carpenter, August Schner and J. K. Hansbrough, appointed last December to condemn property for a right of way east of Broadway, from the Merchants' Bridge south, for the C., B. & Q. Railroad, have at last filed their report, raquiring the company to pay about 1800,000 for the property wanted. Mr. Carpenter having discharged this duty, he has been appointed one of the Board of Commissions for the condemnation of property for the new Union Depot site.

It developed to day that the Montgomery property, at the southeast corner of Olive and Thirteenth streets, which was reported to have been sold for 185,000, was purchased by Charles F. Bates, who has not only acquired Mrs. Hannah Montgomery's interest, but that of her daughter, Mrs. Hugh Eogers, also adjoining on Thirteenth street and extending south to the alley. This gives Mr. Bates an additional frontage of 201 feet on Thirteenth street, 109 feet in all, whereas it was previously stated that he had 69 feet on Olive by a depth only of 86h on Thirteenth. The corner premises are now under lease, which will expire in ahout a year, at the end of which

Of leading articles at St. Louis for the twenty-four hours ending Saturday, June 27, 1891, and corre-sponding day in 1890, as reported by the Merchants' Exchange:

Corn—Wheat continues to drag corn down with it, but there were other influences at work to depress the market. These were fine weather and improved crop conditions, a lower Chicago, with liberal receipts there, fair arrivals here, liverpoot off Id and Danublan corn off coast 6d lower, and the duliness and weakness in the last market had an uniavorable effect. The Atlantic ports were 83,300 bu and for the week 1,049,000 bu, an increase of $51,000 in the market at any time and the close was 1/22% by the merket at any time and the close was 1/22% by the merket at any time and the close was 1/22% by the solid at 4/2% condition of wheat at 10/2, corn at 85 and oats at 80 cm. Birther and the fairly with liberal receipts and the duliness and weakness in the last market had an uniavorable effect. The Atlantic ports were 83,300 bu and for the week 1,049,000 bu, an increase of $51,000 big. to $51,000 bu, an increase of $51,000 big. to $500 bu, an increase of $51,000 big. but $500 but the statement of the week before. There was not much rally to the market at any time and the close was 1/22% by the big. Butter and Eggs.

It is expected that the next visible report on wheat and one time for year was $24,000 bu in wheat and one time for year was $24,000 bu in wheat and continued the proper of the last wheat the last will show over 1,000,000 bu decrease. The decrease one year ago was $24,000 bu in wheat and one time for year was $25,000 bu in or $250 but the state of the proper of the butter and Eggs.

Under the new pool law, pools may be sold only on races held within the State, and there is no discrimination made between selling pools on the tracks where the races are at the South Side Park and at Kansas City, and the pool-rooms anywhere within the State can sell pools on these races, but on no others. Of course it is to the interest of the owners of the tracks to prevent the pool-rooms from getting the results of their races, so that any person who wishes to speculate on them will be forced to go the tracks to do so. The management of the South Side Track realizes this and intends to prevent the pool-rooms reaping any profit from their meeting, if it is in their power to do so. Of course the rooms would rather sell on the big meetings, such as Sheepshead Bay and Washington Park, but as they are cut off from those they will probably be glad to sell on the South and the pool-rooms anywhere within the will probably be glad to sell on the South Side Park and Kansas City races, and there may be an interesting fight between the track management and the room-owners over the

Yesterday was a bad one for jockeys, horses it falling on three different tracks with their riders. At Kansas City four jockeys were in an accident which occurred in the first race, and all of them were more or less hurt. Van S. fell at the first turn, his jockey, Ed Drain, going down with him. The horse was in a bunch at the time and T. W., ridden by Ezell; Little Sister, ridden by Taylor, and Rocket, ridden by Van Dusen, all fell over the prostrate horse, and the four horses and four boys were laid out on the track. Drain and Ezell were picked up unconscious, and for awhile it was believed that the latter was dead. They were carried from the track and it was found that one of Ezell's fingers was broken and his face badly cut. Drain was cut about the head but no bones were broken. It is not known to what extent the boys are cut about the head but no bones were broken. It is not known to what extent the boys are injured internally. Taylor and Van Dusen were only slightly bruised and the former afterward rode. The accident at the Washington Park track, Chicago, also occurred in the first race, and it almost cost Britton, one of the best jockeys on the Western circuit, his life. He attempted to go through a bunch of horses with Miss Dixe, on whom he had the mount, but in the middle of the lot the filly fell and threw Britton, one of the best jockeys on the Western circuit, his life. He attempted to go through a bunch of horses with Miss Dixie, on whom he had the mount, but in the middle of the lot the filly fell and threw Britton against the inside fence, his head striking the top of it. He was picked up un-conscious. At first it was believed that the boy's skull was fractured and that he could not recover. A more thorough examination made at the hospital to which he was driven showed that there were no bones broken, and it is now thought that the boy will come around all right. He is jockey for Scoggan Bros. all right. He is jockey for Scoggan Bros. The other accident occurred at Sheepshead Bay in the third race, and the jockey thrown was no less a personage than the great colored rider, Isaac Hamilton. He attempted to get through next the rail, with Port Chester, the favorite, but got pocketed, and before he could drop back with the horse, Port Chester got his legs crossed and fell, turning a complete somershult.

Louis Paul Browning, alias Peter, the celebrated hard-hitting and drinking outfielder of the Pittsburg Pirates, was released yesterday by President O'Neil. Browning's release is undoubtedly due to the faction fight going on in the team ever since the opening of the season. His playing has been first-class. Browning was formerly the champion batsman of the Association while a member of the Louisville aggregation. He was also the biggest lusher in the profession, and could stow away more bourbon firewater the team came out. He is too good a man to be idle long. Charley King was knocked out of the box again yesterday by the Cleveland Spiders. His release will be given him now without a doubt. Verily, the way of the

in a peculiar manner early this morning. The house is occupied by Mrs. Alice Sullivan, who in a peculiar manner early this morning. The house is occupied by Mrs. Alice Sullivan, who has several roomers, and one of them is Charles McMahon, formerly of the local Trades and Labor Union. McMahon occupies a hallroom on the third floor of the house, and about 2:30 o'clock this morning the other roomers were rudely awakened by the firing in McMahon's room. Three shots were heard in rapid succession. The roomers thought that either a murder was being committed or that thieves were bombarding the house. In an instant there was a scene of wild confusion. Some of the roomers rushed out of the house, while others jumped up and locked their doors, endeavoring to protect their lives by blocking out all intruders. A few daring spirits ventured to McMahon's room and found him standing there with a smoking revolver in his hand and a wild giare in his eye, while the covers and mattress of his bed were ablaze. McMahon was disarmed, and one of the boarders set to work to extinguish the fire while another rushed to No. 15 Engine Company, just one block west on Broadway, and gave a still alarm. When the firemen arrived, they found the boarder making a very successful fight against the flames with a bucket of water. With the assistance of the firemen the blaze was soon extinguished. The fire had not got outside the room at all It is supposed that McMahon, in discharging the revolver, held it very near the bedictothes and thus set the latter on fire, although some were of the opinion that he must have been smoking and dropped a clagar or match on the bed and afterward shot off the revolver to turn in a sort of general alarm of fire. The former theory, however, is the most generally accepted, although McMahon himself was not in condition to give a very clear explanation of the occurrence.

There has been a good deal of talk in army circles in Washington in reference to a re-arrangement of the military divisions that

St. Louis. The condition of the army as regards the various commands has been anomalous ever since the death of Gen. Philip

H. Sheridan. The country is divided into three divisions, the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Missouri, one for each of the Major-the Missouri, one for each of the Major-Generals and six departments, one for each of the brigadiers of the line. The command of all was vested in the General of the army, with headquarters at Wighlington.

A FAULTY ARRANGEMENT.

Since the death of Sheridan there has been neither General nor Lieutenant-General. The senior Major-General, John M. Schofield, was withdrawn from the command of his division and stationed at Washington and as a result there was one division with no officer of proper rank to command it. A number of changes and rearrangements were made in order to obviate this difficulty, but none have proved satisfactory. The great Division of the Missouri, including the Departments of Dakota, the Platte, the Missour and Texas, was curtailed by the removal of the two last named departments, which report direct to Washington and belong to no division. The absence of a Major-General was supplied by the appointment of a Brigadier-General to command the Division of the Pactific, consisting of the Departments of Arizona, California and the Columbia, and the latter department was left without a commander. The Department of the Missouri was cut down by the transfer of the Important district of New Mexico to the Department he can conveniently take would be that of the Department of the Missouri. In this case Gen. Merritt would be transferred to St. Paul to command the Department of Dakota, and the headquarters of this department would be removed to Chicago. Although this plan meets with much favor at Washington there are objections to it which, it is believed, will prevent its adoption. In the first place it is not considered to be at all likely that an officer of the well-known ambition and energy of Nelson A. Miles would consent to give up the command of so important a department as that of Dakota, in which nearly all the Indians likely to give trouble are located, in exchange for the Missouri, in which no trouble is likely to occur, which has recently been stripped of a great part of its troops, and in which there are only five posts of any importance. In the second place their are decided military objections to the commanding general being so remote from the troops under his command as Miles would be with headquarters at Chicago. The fact that he may desire to have charge of the School of Application at Fort Leavenworth and the Cavairy School at Fort Riley is the only reason that is considered likely to influence him.

OTHER PLANS ADVOCATED.

But the general impression is that he would prefer to command the Department of Dakota, with the State of Michigan attached to it. In that case the headquarters of the Department of the Missouri would remain here. Another plan contemplates the attachment of the Department of the Columbia to that of California, to be commanded by a Brigadier-General, and the abolition of the Division of the Pacific. Should this be done no disturbance in command would be necessary east of the mountains, the commander of the Department of the Columbia being transferred to St. Paul.
